

Alumni Nominate Six Grads For Senior-of-the-Year Award

THE SENIOR-OF-THE-YEAR AWARD IS SPONSORED ANNUALLY BY THE ALUMNI BOARD OF DIRECTORS. THE AWARD, PRESENTED AT GRADUATION, CONSISTS OF A CITATION AND $100. THESE ARE THE SIX STUDENTS WHO WERE NOMINATED FOR THE AWARD THIS YEAR.

STEVE FREEZE of Dayton, O., earned a nomination for Senior of the Year on the basis of his perfect 4.00 cumulative index and his numerous extracurricular activities. Besides serving in the Student Senate and on the Student Academic Affairs Board, Steve was the chief organizer of the "Pollution Teach-In" on the SJC campus. Majoring in economics with a minor in accounting, he has received scholarship offers from the law schools of the University of Colorado, Case-Western Reserve University and the University of Cincinnati, but he believes he will first be called to military duty. When asked why he chose economics as a major to prepare him for law school, he replied by saying that he felt most of the national and urban problems were essentially economic in nature. Pictured with Steve is Donna Knochel '65, a member of the alumni panel of judges who selected the winner of the award.

MARY THOESSEN of Chesterton, Ind., is the first coed to be nominated for the award in its five-year history, and the alumni panel of judges gave her the second-highest rating of any previous candidate. Except for one B and one C, Mary earned nothing but A's while at Saint Joseph's, majoring in biology-chemistry. Next fall she will enroll at Ohio State where she has won a graduate fellowship to cover her expenses while working toward a Ph.D. in biochemistry. A popular and active student while at SJC, Mary was a student senator, secretary of her junior class, and a member of the Glee Club and numerous other organizations. She was involved in organizing Earthday activities on campus and collecting clothing for Korean orphans. Pictured with her is Jerry Walker '59, an investment executive with Cowen & Co. in Chicago, and a member of the alumni panel of judges, VU MANH HUNG of Da Nang, South Vietnam, received a nomination for his outstanding scholastic performance (a 3.56 cumulative index) and his activities as secretary of the Committee for the Vietnamese Relief Fund. Hung, who majored in physics and math, says he considers his education at Saint Joseph's something for which he will always be grateful, and he expressed his gratitude in an open letter to the faculty and administration shortly before graduation. Being from South Vietnam, he was a valuable asset in student discussions on the war and the history of his country. Next year he will attend Illinois Institute of Technology where he won a scholarship. After completing his studies, Hung will return to South Vietnam, where his parents still live, to serve his people in the fields of science and education.

PETE SHEA of Hazelton, North Dakota, was nominated for his scholastic achievements and his activities in student affairs. As a music major, and among the most talented in the department, he compiled a 3.68 cumulative index, carrying a minor in French. He served as a resident assistant, president of the SJC Band and as an accompanist for the Glee Club. During his four years at Saint Joseph's, Pete has received membership in Phi Eta Sigma, Delta Epsilon Sigma and the Blue Key National Honor Fraternities. On Wednesday evenings, Pete was one of the "regulars" at mini-concerts performed at Dr. and Mrs. John Egan's home, members of the College's staff. Pete hopes to study in France next year, putting to use his minor field of study. His long-range plans are for a career in music and music education.

BILL HOLDA of Lafayette, Ind., the winner of the 1971 Senior-of-the-Year Award, was nominated by the Alumni Board for his role as a student leader. As President of the Student Association during his junior year, he won praise from students and faculty alike, and the President of the College referred to him as the most effective student government leader the College has ever had. During his senior year, Bill served as a columnist for the Student newspaper and continued his active participation in the Glee Club, Political Science Club and numerous other organizations. Having won a Rotary International Graduate Fellowship, Bill will spend 16 months studying music at Folkwang Hochschule in Essen, Germany. He plans a career either in public singing or as a voice instructor. On Bill's right is Dr. Louis Abbott '50, chairman of the Alumni Committee for Academic Encouragement.

ANTHONY MESCHER of Celina, O., won an Ohio State University Fellowship worth $12,400 to assist him in completing a four-year program leading to a Ph.D. in zoology. He received similar offers from Purdue and the University of Illinois. A personable student, Tony was involved in a large number of extracurricular activities at Saint Joseph's, including the Student Association's Academic Affairs Board, the Student Senate, the yearbook staff, and Phi Kappa Theta Fraternity. For two years he helped the Admissions Office in recruiting new students, and he was the College's delegate to the 1970 national convention of the American Institute of Biological Sciences. He plans a teaching career on the college level. Pictured with Tony is Bill Elpert '53 of Kentland, Ind., former Alumni Board member and a member of the panel of judges. He is vice-principal and athletic director at South Newton High School near Kentland.

"Upholding The Law Depends On Everyone"

College President Fr. Charles Banet presents honorary Doctor of Laws degree to Judge Halleck.

"You can't expect others to abide by the law if you yourself refuse to do so," Federal Judge Charles W. Halleck told the 1971 SJC graduating class, the largest in the College's history.

The 42-year-old Halleck, son of former House of Representatives leader Charles A. Halleck, was appointed to the District of Columbia's Court of General Sessions five years ago by President Lyndon Johnson. Previously known for his conservatism and judicial outbursts against defendants, Judge Halleck is now what Newsweek magazine terms "a vocal advocate of judicial reform who wants to make the court system serve the people—all the people."

In his commencement address, the judge pointed to the widening crisis of confidence in the law among young people and stressed that the essential ingredient for the success of our system of jurisprudence is the faith of the people in that system. Noting that the law must represent certainty and fairness, he suggested the graduates carry into society a genuine concern for humanity and a desire to uphold the law.

Halleck also criticized the handling of mass arrests during recent Vietnam protests in Washington. "Some of the people arrested were breaking the law and some were not," he said. The judge presided over many of the trials of those arrested, dismissing more than 200 cases. In most instances he ruled that the constitutional rights of the defendants had been violated.

DR. MARTIN RYAN '58, chairman of the sociology department at Saint Joseph's, reaches from his car to congratulate Calvin Ash '70 of Washington, D.C., and his family. Ash, who completed his studies at Saint Joseph's last December, was among 359 grads who received their degrees at the May 30 commencement exercises.

Sidelines

Reporting on varsity sports at Saint Joseph's College.

● Valpo, Indiana Central Share Title: Indiana Central has won a share of the Indiana Collegiate Conference baseball championship in its first year in the league, while Saint Joseph's lived up to Coach George Post's prediction that "we'll be a running team" by leading the ICC in stolen bases. Indiana Central finished with a 9-3 record in conference play, good for a first-place tie with Valparaiso. Saint Joseph's ended with a 3-7 conference record and 14-19 for all games. In ten league games, the Pumas stole 21 bases, seven more than runner-up DePauw.

● Winning Ten Games On A Nine-game Schedule: Head Football Coach Bill Jennings says he wants to win ten football games next year, and the players seem even more determined than he is. One problem—there are only nine games on the Pumas' schedule. "Right," the players will tell you, "nine scheduled games and a bowl game!" It's not an impossible dream, for the Pumas have a wealth of talent returning from last season's 7-2-0 team plus some young support from last fall's undefeated freshman team.

● College Drops Track, Tennis: Two minor sports which haven't fared well in recent years at Saint Joseph's have been track and tennis. Both teams have had a tradition of winless seasons, and student interest and participation have been almost non-existent. These were the reasons cited for the Athletic Committee's decision to drop the two sports from the varsity level, leaving SJC with an inter-collegiate athletic program of football, basketball, baseball, wrestling, bowling and golf.

● Freshmen Cagers Now Eligible in ICC: The Indiana Collegiate Conference has voted to allow college freshmen to participate in varsity basketball. Earlier, the ICC had permitted freshman players to participate in all varsity sports except basketball. A number of conference schools, because of their small male enrollment, have been eligible under NCAA rules to play freshmen in varsity basketball, but a conference policy, until the new action, had prohibited it.

● Pumas Sign Kankakee Valley High School Star: Alan Rockwell, a 6-4½ forward for Kankakee Valley High School, has signed a letter of intent to enroll at Saint Joseph's this fall. Rockwell, a two-time member of the all-Midwest Conference team and the all-regional team, led his team in scoring and rebounds during his junior and senior years.

● Coach Dienhart Named to Indiana Hall of Fame: Joe Dienhart, one of the most successful coaches in Saint Joseph's athletic history, has been named to the Indiana Basketball Hall of Fame. During the late 1930's and early 1940's, Dienhart's teams at Saint Joseph's enjoyed winning seasons year after year, compiling a 25-9-4 mark in football over five seasons and a 58-46 mark in basketball. He joined the athletic department at Purdue during World War II when SJC was forced to reduce its programs, and he has served as assistant athletic director at Purdue since 1947.

● Cancer Takes Coach Dale O'Connell: Former Head Basketball Coach Dale O'Connell died of cancer February 2 in Joliet, Ill. O'Connell, 52, had been head varsity basketball coach at Joliet East High School for three years and an assistant coach for Joliet Junior College. He coached basketball at Saint Joseph's for three seasons during 1956-58. Interment was in Holy Trinity Cemetery, Samersworth, N. H.

Grand Marshal Troy Ruttman, past winner of the Indianapolis 500, was on hand to officiate race-day ceremonies. Ruttman said he will be back next year, even if it's not as grand marshal, just to see the enthusiastic spirit of the Saint Joe audience. Freshman Ed Carter of Akron, O., and his Firestone team won the enduring 4-hour race and split the $500 prize money. The winning go-kart was sponsored by the Firestone Rubber Company. Fr. Charles Banet, College president, spoke for many when he said, "It was great! I wish it could be every weekend."

Three big reasons why the Pumas are looking forward to next season are in the persons of senior quarterback Terry Campbell of Milwaukee and juniors Jahn Timme (left) of Indianapolis and Walter Walker (right) of Chicago. Campbell was the team's most valuable player last year, completing 83 passes for 985 yards and 5 touchdowns. Timme was the number 2 center linebacker as a sophomore and will move into a starting position in the fall. Walker, a defensive tackle, made second team all-Conference his first year on the varsity.

PRIZES First, second and third-place trophies will be awarded to contestants finishing with the three highest scores for 18 holes under the Peoria Handicap System. Under rules governing the Peoria Handicap, tournament officials will randomly select three holes from each the front nine and back nine to determine each contestant's handicap.

WIVES ARE WELCOME Although participation in this tournament is open to men only, wives are welcome to attend and participate in the other activities being planned at Curtis Creek on the day of the tournament. Those alumni bringing their wives should add $2.50 to the registration fee to cover additional food and beverage costs.

Alumni of the Month

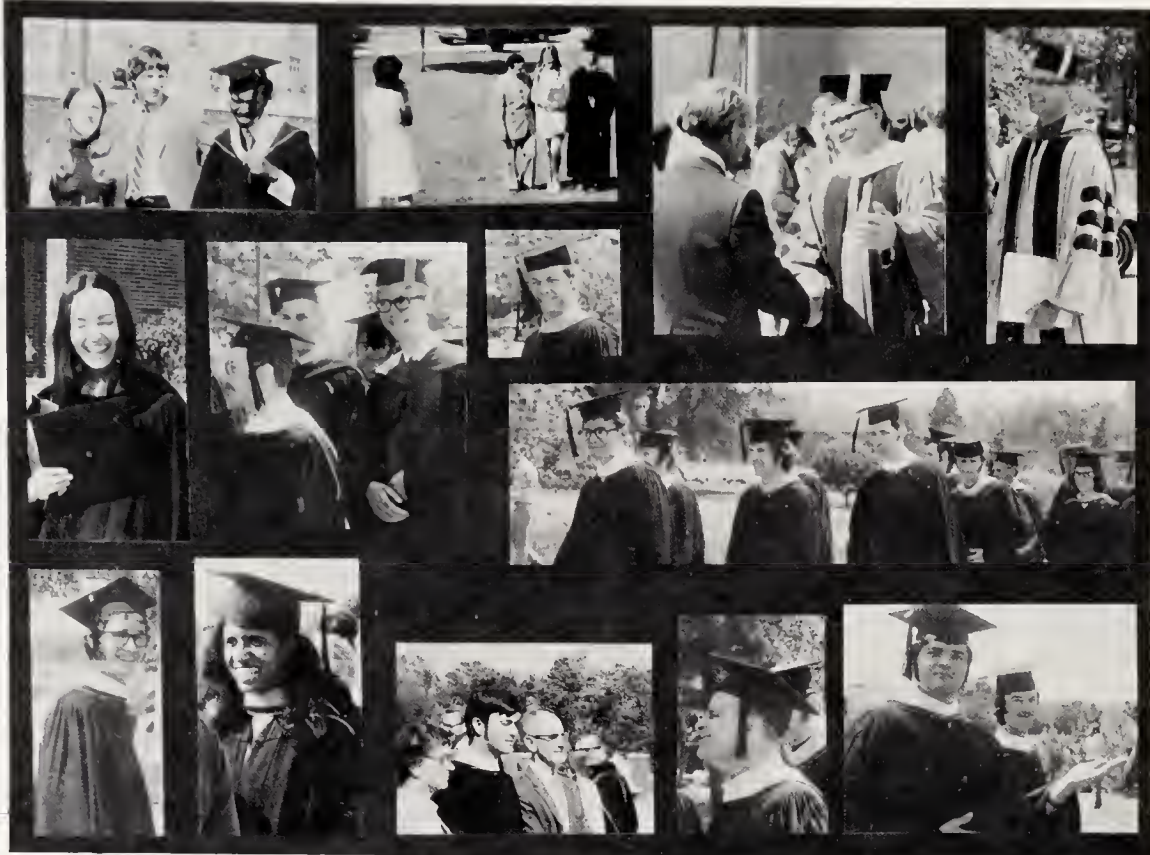

PAUL E. BRUNTON '44: Recently named president of the Louis Allis Company in Milwaukee, a division of Litan Industries, Brunton received the unanimous vote of the Saint Joseph's faculty in being selected for the 1971 Alumni Merit Award. He is the 14th alumnus to receive the College's highest award, presented annually at graduation in recognition of achievements in a chosen field. Brunton holds a B.S. in accounting from Saint Joseph's, with minors in economics and philosophy. He and his wife Margaret are the parents of six children.

GEORGE SINDELAR '13: A former member of Saint Joseph's Academy varsity basketball team, the 77-year-old Sindelar can still be found working out with the St. Viator High School team in Arlington Heights, Ill. In March, the Arlington Heights Herald ran a front-page spread on Sindelar, and included was a picture taken over 60 years ago at Saint Joseph's. Now retired, Sindelar keeps busy with hobbies of painting, gardening and playing the organ in addition to physical exercises.

FR. LEO SCHEETZ '15: Now serving at St. John's Church in Earl Park, Ind., Fr. Scheetz is the author of the three-volume set of God and Ourselves, published by the Exposition Press, Jerico, N.Y. The books employ a unique method of teaching religious doctrine through dialogue, and each is designed for a different grade level: Volume I for high school, Volume II for junior high and Volume III for grades 4, 5 and 6. Fr. Scheetz, who has written numerous articles on religious subjects, holds degrees in sociology, psychiatry and Canon Law from Catholic University.

359 members of the class of 1971, the largest group of degree recipients in the College's history, joined the ranks of alumni on May 30. This one class increased the number of SJC degree holding alumni by more than 10% and dropped the average age of alumni to well below 30 — most SJC alumni have taken their degrees within the past decade. In the graduating class were 48 women students, the largest number since the College became coeducational in 1968. The graduates represented 18 states, the District of Columbia, Puerto Rico, Panama, Canada and South Vietnam. An honorary degree was awarded to Judge Charles W. Halleck of the District of Columbia's Court of General Sessions. He is the son of former House Leader and College Trustee Charles A. Halleck.

Faculty interest in collective bargaining grows as the colleges' financial problems begin to hit home

■ Collective Approach: Adversity draws people together, and so it is with college and university faculty members. The point has been getting across to the teachers that higher education's political and financial problems can lead to similar problems for them. Increasingly they are turning to collective action through faculty organizations to protect their interests. Teachers on several dozen campuses have chosen collective bargaining representatives, and the idea is catching on.

What troubles the teachers? Two things, primarily—threats to salary gains and threats to their job security. The American Association of University Professors reports that, for the first time in at least two decades, faculty salaries rose more slowly this past year than the cost of living. Average pay was up 5.4 per cent, compared with a 6-per-cent rise in consumer prices. The association also says it received an unusually large number of complaints from teachers who said they faced being let go because of financial difficulties of their institutions.

The AAUP, which has the largest college-level membership (90,000) of the major teachers' organizations, so far has been the least active in collective bargaining. But that could change, following an internal review this summer of the association's program. The other principal faculty organizations are the National Education Association and the American Federation of Teachers (AFL-CIO). Each has a strong commitment to collective bargaining and each anticipates significant growth. The National Labor Relations Board has spurred collective bargaining by ruling that it will certify faculty representatives in private colleges.

■ College Income: For several years higher education's major representatives in Washington have been trying to persuade the federal government to start a program of general, unrestricted grants that colleges and universities could spend essentially as they wished. Recently the campaign has been resumed in earnest, and key committees of Congress have been paying close attention. The Nixon Administration, which was not eager to rush into such grants, also has taken a more positive view of them.

What the institutions want is something more than a continuation or expansion of existing federal aid for specific academic programs, college construction, and students. "In a time of fiscal constraints," a spokesman told senators and representatives on Capitol Hill, "it is imperative that first things come first. In the case of higher education, the first priority is . . . grants to institutions for operating costs." The prospects for Congressional action on a bill to authorize the grants seem brighter now than ever before, nurturing the hope in some quarters that the first grants may become available by the fall of 1972.

At the municipal level of government, meanwhile, there seems to be growing interest in imposing taxes on previously exempt properties of local colleges. The cities need the revenue, but college officials naturally are worried. "Once you start down that road," says one, "I think it is the end of private higher education." The issue is so sensitive that, in the case of at least two large universities, it already has put a strain on campus-city relations.

Another cause for concern in colleges and universities is a decline in voluntary financial support from private groups and individuals—the first such drop in more than a decade, according to the Council for Financial Aid to Education. In general, private institutions lost support last year, while public institutions had substantial gains. The council's overall estimate was that gifts fell $20-million from the previous total of $2-billion.

■ In Brief: The enrollment of black students has grown appreciably at many colleges and universities in the past two years, their reports to the federal government indicate. In most cases, however, the proportion of blacks at senior institutions remains well below the 11.2 per cent that blacks represent in the total population . . . A federal court in Virginia has ruled that a state college may not upgrade a virtually all-white branch campus to four-year status because a predominantly black college, also state-supported, already exists in the same city . . .

A nonprofit organization called the Common Fund is starting up this summer to help colleges get a better return on their investments. The fund will pool many institutions' deposits . . .

The number of students applying to the high-cost Ivy League and women's institutions declined this year, while public universities showed a rise in applicants from their own states . . .

Higher tuition for out-of-state students at a state university has survived a test in the U.S. Supreme Court. The court upheld a rule in Minnesota that students have to live there for a year before becoming eligible for lower rates.

Newslines

Items of interest about Saint Joseph's College, the alumni, the faculty, and the students.

● Dr. Gatto Named President of Marian: Dr. Louis Gatto, academic dean and vice-president for academic affairs at Saint Joseph's, has been appointed president of Marian College, Indianapolis, by that college's Board of Trustees. The appointment is effective August 15. Dr. Gatto, who has been at Saint Joseph's for 14 years, was the first layman to ever serve as academic dean of the College, assuming that office in 1967. He has been the main force behind the total restructuring of the College's academic programs, and it was he who introduced the Calculated Risk Plan at SJC, calling for extensive changes in nearly all phases of the College.

● Fr. Labbe Resigns: Fr. Emil Labbe '63, vice-president for student affairs at Saint Joseph's, has resigned from the College's staff after two years of service. He was the third man in four years to head the student affairs office. Fr. Labbe, who was president of the SJC Student Council during his senior year, is a 29-year old native of Dover, N. H. He was one of the youngest men in the nation to serve in such a capacity.

● Former Grid Star Coaching: Mike Murphy '59, a member of SJC's 1956 Aluminum Bowl team, has been selected head football coach at Woburn (Mass.) High School. He has been at Woburn for 8 years as a math, science and physical education teacher. In 1956 Murphy starred in the nationally televised NAIA championship game. Playing in the mud at the rain-soaked Aluminum Bowl in Little Rock, Ark., Murphy was Saint Joseph's plow-horse, carrying the ball 26 times, once for a 35-yard break-away run to Montana State's 15-yard line. The game ended in a scoreless tie.

● Black Enrollment Increasing: A national survey by the Office of Civil Rights indicates that enrollment of black students at American colleges and universities is on the upswing, but the proportion of black students at most colleges is far short of their proportion in the general population. In 1969 approximately 7% of all college students were black. Last fall 9.1% of college freshmen were black, a considerable increase over the 5.8% of 1968. There were 40 black students enrolled at Saint Joseph's this past year, or 3% of the total student body—higher than the percentage at most other Indiana colleges and universities.

● Student Leaders Elected: The student body has elected senior Jim Kenney of Cincinnati president of the Student Association, and the class of '72 has chosen Mike Gresk of Wheaton, Ill., as its president. Both students will serve one-year terms on the Alumni Board of Directors and as student representatives on the Alumni Campus Relations Committee. Kenney will also serve as a member of the College's Board of Trustees.
